Reconstructing Gender in Middle East: Tradition, Identity, and Power From Columbia University Press

Employing a broad, interdisciplinary perspective on gender relations, Reconstructing Gender in the Middle East questions long-standing stereotypes about the traditional subordination of women in the region. With essays on gender construction in Iran, Turkey, Israel, Morocco, Egypt, Lebanon, and the Occupied Territories, this collection offers a wide-ranging exploration of tradition, identity, and power in different parts of the Middle East. Seeking to overcome monolithic Western notions of women's life in "the traditional society," the essays in Part I reexamine the assumption that such societies leave little room for female participation. Part II focuses on the reconstruction of identities by women in Iran, Turkey, Israel, and the Occupied Territories. The authors examine the complex variables that contribute to the development of identities—including gender, class, and ethnicity—in various Middle Eastern societies, questioning whether certain identities are more important to women than others. These essays also look at the issue of group identity formation versus the autonomy of the individual. Part III looks at the relationship between gender and power in everyday life in Lebanon, Israel, Egypt, and Morocco, showing how power relations are constantly contested and renegotiated among family members and members of a community, between nations and between men and women. With its collection of enlightened and diverse contemporary perspectives on women in the Middle East, Reconstructing Gender in the Middle East is an important work that will have significant impact on the way we look at gender in traditional societies.

As a scholar exactly feel bored to reading. If their teacher inquired them to go to the library or make summary for some book, they are complained. Just very little students that has reading's heart and soul or real their leisure activity. They just do what the trainer want, like asked to go to the library. They go to right now there but nothing reading really. Any students feel that reading through is not important, boring and also can't see colorful pics on there. Yeah, it is to become complicated. Book is very important in your case. As we know that on this time, many ways to get whatever we really wish for. Likewise word says, ways to reach Chinese's country. Therefore , this Reconstructing Gender in Middle East: Tradition, Identity, and Power can make you experience more interested to read.
